Snow Removal Crews Are Alerted in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8—(P)—Ohio flashed a statewide alert to its highway snow removal crews today.

Forecasts of snow flurries throughout Ohio, with "heavy squalls" in northern sections, caused the alert. Chief Maintenance Engineer C. W. McCaughel issued it.

"It looks like we're in business up north," he said. "We may be in for it everywhere, but I know we're ready," he added.

A cold wave from Canada threw an icy chill into parts of the mid-west today. Little relief is likely until Friday or later.

The center of the frigid air mass was in North Dakota this morning. Minot reported 16 below zero. The center was expected to move near Des Moines, Ia., by tonight.

Well, the Yuletide is here! The first letter to Santa Claus has just come to the Record-Herald office—and that surely should make it official.

Just why it was delivered here, I don't quite understand. Those busy boys down at the postoffice are pretty sharp, though.

The only address on the light blue envelope was: "Santa Claus, North Pole." But, it wound up in the Record-Herald box just like hundreds in the past have. Yes, those boys at the post office know their business . . .

Inside on a piece of yellow, lined school tablet paper was printed the message to Santa. In a childish hand, the letters were formed as the kiddies are taught in the first few grades of school.

The letter made a request, but it did not overlook and expression of gratitude for what Santa left last year. It said:

"Dear Santa: Will you please bring me a new ballet dress for Christmas. And an erection set, too.

"Thank you for the dolly that I got last year.

"I am glad that Christmas is coming."

Well, since that might be a tip for friends or family, I think I'll let them know that Barbara Ann Byron sent the letter.

It might also give some other parents some ideas for their little girls.

Since there are so many kiddies writing to Santa this time of year, it will be impossible to print any more in this column. So, let me suggest to parents that they watch their youngsters and intercept their mail before it gets into the post office. Otherwise, the communications might go astray and their faith in Santa be weakened.

Gas Rate Increase Meeting Opposition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(P)—Wholesale Gas rates of Ohio Fuel Co. to utilities in Ohio will not be raised automatically until at least March 1, it was agreed yesterday at a rate hearing here.

The company could force an automatic increase next Feb. 6 under federal law (five months after the company asked an increase) if the Power Commission has failed to dispose of the case by then. However, the company agreed not to move before March 1 to force a rate boost.

At the same time, the commission granted the company more time in which to support its claims for the proposed increase.

The hearing adjourned until Jan. 4.

Howell Pudue, counsel for the commission, yesterday declared that his evidence shows that "The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. is not entitled to a nickel more in its rates. It earns more than a fair return now."

5 D P Families Coming Here

Members of the First Baptist Church voted, at a called meeting of the congregation Wednesday evening, to sponsor the resettlement in Fayette County, of Protestant families now located in displaced persons camps in Europe.

In doing so the church is co-operating with the American Baptist Home Mission Society, Church World Service and International Refugee Organization in enabling worthy families made homeless during the recent war to secure homes in this country.

The project began at a meeting of the Shepherd's Bible class two months ago, when a committee was appointed to investigate the displaced persons resettlement program. Miss Mabel Briggs, Robert Bachelor and the pastor, Rev. Francis T. McCarty, were appointed on the committee. The church as a whole became interested and through the committee promises of employment housing facilities have been secured. Travel expenses from the port of entry will be paid by the church. The church also gives assurance that the families will not become public charges. Three of the families asked for by the church are from Latvia; the other two will probably be from Estonia or another of the Balkan states.

Three or four months will be required to bring the families to this country because of the careful screening they must go through before they are permitted to leave the camps. This includes two medical examinations and rigid exploration of the history of every member of the family, to sift out those with 'undesirable' politics or even minor criminal records.

Wide Variance In Teacher Pay

Scales Compared For OEA Meeting

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8—(P)—Teacher salaries vary as much as $2,000 between communities in Ohio. T. G. O'Keefe, research director for the Ohio Education Association, said today.

O'Keefe told of results of a statewide survey of teachers' salaries as the OEA prepared to open its 28th annual three-way meeting here. Some 900 Ohio educators representing more than 40,000 teachers are expected.

"Wealthier communities can and do hire the better-trained and experienced teachers," he said. "Children living in communities which possess little taxable wealth are receiving an education greatly inferior to those of wealthier communities."

He said his survey disclosed the highest average salary is $4,171 at Norwood, a Cincinnati suburb, Cleveland is second with a $4,073 average while in Cincinnati the average teacher gets $4,060, he said. No other Ohio communities top the $4,000 mark.

Some Comparison

Here are the ten cities, exempted villages and counties reporting the highest average teacher salaries in the OEA survey:

Cities: Norwood, $4,171; Cleveland, $4,073; Cincinnati, $4,060; Cleveland Heights, $3,891; Shaker Heights, $3,830; Toledo, $3,779; Lakewood, $3,737; East Cleveland, $3,737; Oakwood, $3,736; Dayton, $3,723.

Exempted villages: Wyoming, $3,750; Fairport Harbor, $3,345; Rossford, $3,275; Mariemont, $3,228; Hubbard, $3,225; Bay Village, $3,137; Eaton, $3,100; Perryburg, $3,090; Westlake, $3,062; Maumee, $3,035.

Counties: Cuyahoga, $3,051; Mahoning, $2,838; Lake, $2,805; Erie, $2,769; Madison, $2,759; Montgomery, $2,753; Hamilton, $2,698; Greene, $2,679; Summit, $2,672; Clark, $2,669.

W. B. Bliss, executive secretary of the OEA executive committee, says his group will recommend the OEA work for "legislative adoption of a state minimum salary schedule for teachers to eliminate many inequalities."

Yesterday, O'Keefe revealed results of another survey that showed that one Ohio teacher out of every four earns less than $2,400 a year. The average pay was considerably less than that of carpenters, highway workers, or bus drivers, he said.

Margaret Boyd, Steubenville high school teacher and president of the OEA, will address the opening session of the representative assembly tonight.

Common Pleas Judge Myron B. Gessaman made the continuance after prosecution and defense tangled in a legal argument.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett asked Judge Gessaman to commit Heer to Lima State Hospital for 30 days "in view of evidence and circumstances presented in the case."

The Franklin County grand jury, which indicated Heer Nov. 28 in the slaying of Jack T. McKeown, 21, Norwood, O., recommended Heer be given a mental examination.

But, Defense Counsel Matthew L. Bigger filed a motion to quash the first-degree murder indictment and to reduce the charge to second-degree murder.

Rhodes Scholarship Finalists Announced

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8—(P)—Ohio winners in Rhodes scholarship examinations here yesterday were Herbert J. Hansell, 24, of Cleveland, is practicing law in New York, and Albert B. Stridsberg, 20, of Cincinnati. They will compete at Indianapolis Saturday with 10 students from Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Dana Hyer To Resign Position with Schools

Interest In Korn Insurance Agency Purchased Effective First of Year

Dana Hyer is going to resign as purchasing agent for the Washington C. H. school system to go into the insurance business.

Hyer, who has been what amounts to the business manager of the city schools since May of 1947, revealed Thursday that he would hand his resignation to the Board of Education at its next regular meeting Tuesday night.

He explained, however, that he had discussed his plans with individual members of the board for some time.

His resignation is to request that his term of employment by the board be terminated "January 31, 1950, or sooner if possible."

Dana Hyer

Hyer said he is purchasing an interest in the Leonard Korn insurance agency and added that he hoped to be able to take an active part in the business by the first of the year.

He said, too, that this insurance

Scandal Charge Collapsing with Congress Probe

Complete Inquiry Planned, However, To Get All Facts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(P)—House probes are on the trail of more wartime atomic shipments to Russia—shipments number 4 and 5.

They believe perhaps 500 pounds of uranium compound reached the Reds around July of 1944. And they think they may be able to spot proof that the Russians got 1,000 grams of heavy water.

The un-American activities committee also is trying to find out what former lend-lease officials William C. Moore and James P. Hoopes had to do with shipment number two back in the spring of 1943.

It wants to know why Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, boss of the atom bomb project, was reported to have approved the shipment when Groves said he didn't.

The committee is exploring, too, an idea the Soviets might have side-stepped the lend-lease administration to get some atomic materials elsewhere.

But except for some checking on items like these by the committee staff, the latest atomic explosion on Capitol Hill apparently has subsided until Dec. 19.

Moore, Hoopes, and former Vice President Henry A. Wallace may be witnesses then.

Wallace To Be Heard

Wallace will get a chance to deny under oath what Groves has already denied for him—that Wallace put on pressure and overruled Groves to get atomic materials for the Soviets. Wallace has termed this "sheerest fabrication."

It was a radio commentator, Fulton Lewis, Jr., who said Wallace was the source of pressure.

Wallace telegraphed the committee "I would like to meet my traducers face-to-face before your committee at the earliest possible moment."

Groves, now retired, told the committee yesterday the late Harry L. Hopkins, White House adviser and lend-lease expeditor, didn't apply pressure on him either.

So far, the committee says it actually knows of only three atomic shipments to the Russians, all in 1943. The first was 420 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate, the second 1,000 pounds of the same. The third was a sample of about two pounds of uranium metal that wouldn't have done the Soviets much good.

SHIPMENT FROM CANADA

OTTAWA, Dec. 8—(P)—Trade Minister C. D. Howe said today a shipment of Canadian uranium oxide and uranium nitrate went to Russia in May, 1943.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Howe said the shipment was valued at $2,445 and made through normal commercial channels by Eldorado Gold Mines, Ltd., a private firm which sold its

Taft Puts Finger On A Vital Issue

Probably nothing in this nation is at present causing more discussion than the increasing demand for pensions.

There is a vast difference between pensions which have been earned and a demand for pensions for everybody after a certain age such as 65 whether they have worked or "loafed" most of their lives.

Senator Robert A. Taft has put his finger on one of the most vital issues before the nation in urging a careful study of the pension program by the Senate Finance Committee when it meets in January. The senior senator from Ohio asks the question which is surely being asked by every working man or woman in America, when he says, "If a steel worker is entitled to a pension of $100 a month, why not a waiter?" And in fact, why not the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker? In fact, why not pensions for all at the age of 65—if they can be financed on a sound basis?

What is urgently needed is a systematic study of the exact amounts required to finance the difference between present pension plans and the figure to be made available. It is by no means impossible to think in terms of this result. Many factories in America have succeeded in stabilizing their employment sufficiently to provide this for their workers. If we can once lick the problem of recurrent work stoppages and unnecessary strikes the pension issue perhaps can be tackled with good promise of success.

Propaganda vs. Truth

The gentlemen of the Kremlin have produced a new "documentary" film purporting to depict life in these United States as of now. According to this movie, we have long lines of unemployed waiting in their queues for coffee and pie, by reason of having been turned out of their factories which were manufacturing peacetime merchandise. But simultaneously, Russia tells us, our war-working factories are running full blast and the tonails of millionaires' dogs get special manicurist treatment. The Soviet film also portrays the Klux Klan as a most active organization, engaged in the business of frightening workers from coast to coast.

There would appear to be nothing in the Russian "documentary" about American workers driving to their jobs, or enjoying the pleasures of life in any way whatever. To all intents, life in these United States is a very difficult thing in the Moscow Malarky Movie.

Possibly our government should ask for some form of reciprocity from the Kremlin. Presumably the film was pieced together by Russian newsgatherers from our own movies, old and new. We ought to ask for authority to use shots made by our own camera men of contemporary doings in Russia. If things are so much better in the Soviet Union than anywhere else, why don't the Russians allow people from other countries to get in to see these wonders or their own people to get out to study the contrast?

Fifty Headaches

Americans have seven and a half billion headaches a year, according to figures gathered by someone in the package medicine business. This averages out to fifty headaches a year for every person.

Averages are deceptive, it must be admitted. But anyone who has tried to get a committee together to tackle a difficult job will agree that the figure is definitely conservative.

The cause of the Negro is gaining in the South. The Southern Regional Council reports that 65 cities in 12 states have hired 344 Negro policemen and seven colored policemen.

The leaders of a community campaign for funds sometimes declare in discouragement that only a miracle could bring them to their goal. Yet every good community enterprise is a miracle in itself.

From Grand Opera to Whodunits! By Cynthia Lowery (Substitution For Boyle)

NEW YORK—(AP)—It is only fair to warn mystery story publishers that Helen Traubel has decided to get into the writing game.

Miss Traubel is a singer. She is a Wagnerian Star of the Metropolitan Opera Company. There are many who say she is the best singer in the world.

She also possesses one of the loudest, most infectious laughs extant and a frightening love of practical jokes. She absorbs detective stories the way opera stars are reputed to demolish whipped cream pastries.

She has now completed her first detective story, a 5,500-word literary hors d'oeuvre designed to whet appetites for her major opus.

The first novel is entitled "The Ptomaine Canary," and what a psychiatrist would make of it bodes ill for other suspense novel writers. She is determined to call her second novel, "The Post Mortem of Mortimer Post," which gives you an idea.

Miss Traubel is having her first work printed privately: 25 copies in limp leather. Suitably autographed, they will be sent as Christmas presents to intimate friends.

To facilitate reviews, Miss T. has written her own criticisms in advance, and will include them on a fly leaf. She has the Saturday Review of Literature proclaiming: "three cheers for this high tension yarn..."

Pravda, she alleges, calls it "upper class propaganda." Newspaper reviews are confined merely to "yes!" "No" and "best detective story of the season."

Roughly, and the word is chosen well, the plot concerns a Metropolitan opera star with an enormous laugh who adores detective stories. Her manager-husband invites all the nation's top mystery-story writers like Erle Stanley Gardner, Ellery Queen, Rex Stout, to a party at their home.

Judge Shirick's Dull Decision

Judge Harry E. Shirick's decision regarding Communist teachers in our schools is a long, dull uninspired document. The judge decided that Communists may teach our children and that there is nothing we can do about it because the Communists have a constitutional right to teach Communism in schools supported by taxpayers' money. Compare that with various decisions to the effect that it is unconstitutional to teach God and religion and moral law — and you can see how far we have become influenced by Marxist materialism. The argument that teaching is not a right but a privilege, that the teacher is, after all, a hired employee who should up to the terms of employment, leaves the judge cold.

The assumption is that the judge, having spoken, we can do nothing about it. However, there are many things we can do. First of all, it must be seen to it that the judge's decision is appealed.

up to the supreme court of the United States. Meanwhile, parents can object to the indoctrination of their children, making repeated and, if necessary, violent protests and demonstrations against individual teachers. A picket line of mothers, protesting the corruption of their children by teachers, would do a lot of good. Then, of course, in each city and town, public attention can be called, by the press, to individual teachers who abuse the minds and characters of our children. The schools exist for the children, not for the teacher.

Judge Shirick, I am sure, has not studied the subject thoroughly because his document, giving the Communists the right to teach in our schools, would indicate that. So I want to give him a little information that might be of use to him. "Pravda" on September 15, 1927, published an interview between Stalin and "The First American Labor Delegation" who saw the great man on September 9, 1927.

Talking about how the Communist party operates, Stalin said:

"... Marx and Engels gave the main outlines of the idea of the party as being the vanguard of the proletariat, without which (the party), the proletariat could not achieve its emancipation, could not capture power or reconstruct capitalist society. Lenin's new contribution to this theory was that he developed these outlines further and applied them to the new conditions of the proletarian struggle in the period of imperialism and showed: a) that the party is a higher form of the class organization of the proletariat as compared with the other forms of proletarian organization (labor

Diet and Health

Ulcers of Stomach Can Be Cleared Up

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CONTRARY to general opinion, ulcer of the stomach is not difficult to clear up. Ulcers in this location, as well as those in the first part of the bowel, can for the most part be readily healed by the use of proper diet, rest, and the giving of an alkaline preparation known as baking soda. The real trick is to keep the ulcer from recurring. This is a more difficult matter and requires the constant observation of the doctor, as well as the patient's adherence to a strict regimen.

The four most common causes for recurrences are improper diet, physical or mental fatigue, emotional disturbances, and infections, especially those of the nose and throat.

Slight Pain
The patient with ulcer often pays no attention to slight pain in the abdomen or a digestive upset. However, such a person should always remember that these slight disturbances may indicate a beginning recurrence, and that prompt treatment is necessary if a recurrence is to be prevented.

It is often helpful for such patients to have frequent vacations or even to change their occupations. The diet should contain no foods which may be irritating to the stomach or bowel, and excessively hot or cold foods should also be avoided.

(Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Prevention of Colds
The prevention of colds is important for these persons since a cold might start a recurrence. The patient must avoid exposure to cold and wet, and should keep out of crowds. It is important, too, that the use of excessive amounts of drugs for treating colds, such as aspirin, should also be avoided.

In some cases operative treatment may be required to control a recurrence of ulcers.

American Youth Getting Bigger Despite Wars and Depression

CINCINNATI, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Young men and women students at the University of Cincinnati continue to grow taller and heavier despite a major depression and two world wars, a University researcher reported.

Dr. Laurence B. Chenoweth said that over the past 33 years Cincinnati freshmen men have grown 2.74 inches in height and 22.41 pounds in weight while freshmen women have added 1.24 inches and 4.33 pounds.

"In 1916 and 1917 the average height of freshmen men was 67.45 inches and the average weight was 132.05 pounds," Dr. Chenoweth said.

"In spite of the rigors of war, the freshmen men shows still more advance and students examined during 1948 and 1949 showed an average height of 70.19 inches and an average weight of 154.46 pounds.

"A similar increase was observed among freshmen women. In 1916 and 1917 the average height of these women was 62.83 inches and their weight, 119.00 pounds. Twenty years later these two figures had increased to 63.72 inches and 120.88 pounds.

"In 1948 and 1949 the average height of freshmen women was 64.17 inches and their average weight 123.33 pounds.

"I think the causes of this increase in stature of men and women are the following:

"There is, in general, a higher standard of living today than in 1915.

"The scientific knowledge concerning human nutrition has increased greatly.

"As time goes on, the medical histories of students show a much lower communicable disease rate than formerly. It is a known fact that serious infectious diseases inhibit the growth of children.

"The abolition of child labor has also played some role in the picture."

Medical Association To Continue Fight

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Leaders in the battle of the American Medical Association against what it calls "socialized medicine" say the final win-or-lose struggle may come in 1950.

Members of the AMA have been informed by their top officials that backers of the Truman proposal for Federalized Compulsory Health Insurance have given ground—but only temporarily.

They've been told that "skirmishes" have been won by the AMA against its "enemies" and that extensive public support has been rallied to the AMA's cause.

But they've been placed on notice that the war itself has not been won.

President-elect Elmer L. Henderson of Louisville told the doctors yesterday at a clinical session here:

American medicine is stronger than at other any other time in its history, bulwarked by the support of hundreds of other groups and millions of aroused citizens. But we would be foolish, indeed, if we assumed that the final victory had been won."

Grace Methodist Church WSCS Christmas Meeting

The Christmas meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church was held Wednesday afternoon at the church and was well attended. Following a short piano prelude by Mrs. Jack White, Mrs. Stephen Brown conducted impressive Christmas devotionals, reading from Luke 2, and basing her remarks on the words of the hymn, "Watchman Tell Us Of The Night".

During the business meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Darrell Weinrich, the usual reports were given, including reports from the Circle leaders. Rev. Caley reported on the progress of the basement improvement and suggested that a shower for the new kitchen be arranged for the January meeting. A letter was read from Mrs. George Gordon, a missionary in the Hyderabad District in India, telling how much their people were appreciating the layettes which she took back from America last year.

Mrs. Ed Fite, the society program chairman, introduced Mrs. John Rhoads, who had planned a beautiful and unique program for the afternoon. To create the proper spirit for the presentation, several Christmas carols were played by Mrs. Jack White and Mrs. Charles McCoy read the story of the first Christmas, closing with two lovely Christmas poems. Then, before a background depicting the village of Bethlehem, and flanked by five-branch candelabra, living pictures were posed, representing famous Madonna paintings of well-known artists of Italy, France, Germany, England, the United States, and China. Mrs. Rhoads was the narrator, and described each picture in turn, also telling something of the artist. After each scene, a chorus sang a Christmas carol of the country represented by the artist. The pictures portrayed were: Madonna of the Choir, Raphael; Virgin Adoring the Child, Antonio Allegri; Flight into Egypt, Adolphe Bouguereau; Sorrowful Mother, Gabriel von Max; Madonna of the Holy Light, Sybil Barham; Legend of the Christmas Rose, Alfred Hitchens; Madonna of Moon Gate, Luke Chen; Madonna of Prayer, Nell Walker Warner.

Those taking part in the living pictures were: Mrs. Billie Wilson, Juliana Wilson, Mrs. Max Hope-well, Mrs. Eugene Heath, Mrs. Charles McCoy and Mrs. Harold Moats. At the close Mrs. Rhoads asked all those present to join in silent prayer that the true meaning of Christmas be restored to the people of the world. The meeting was concluded with the Mizpah benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Christopher entertained the members of Mrs. Christopher's bridge club and included their husbands as guests at the annual Christmas dinner party, at their beautiful new home on Lincoln Drive. Yuletide suggestions were used in tasteful arrangement and also in the recreation room where the tempting meal was served buffet style from the dining table, both lighted with clusters of red tapers in mounds of pine branches. Following a most congenial dinner hour, gifts were exchanged around a miniature Christmas tree in the spacious living room. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly passed in playing bridge, and at the conclusion awards were presented to Mrs. Robert Dunton, who was the holder of high score, Mrs. Leonard Korn, second, Mrs. John Forsythe third and Mrs. Carroll Halliday fourth. Mr. and Mrs. Christopher were assisted in the hospitalities by their daughter, Sue. Those included in the pleasant event were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rost, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enslin, Mr. and Mrs.

Mrs. Charles Reinke Chosen President At Meeting Of Westminster Guild

The Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian Church met in the church auditorium Wednesday at 2 o'clock with the president Mrs. Herbert Clickner in charge. Mrs. Clickner opened with a few words on "God Understands."

The hymn "Silent Night" was then sung with Mrs. Russell Geiblehouse at the piano.

Mrs. C. H. Thoroman, secretary of spiritual life and stewardship read the names from the year book of prayer, to be prayed for, also several Bible quotations and gave a prayer.

The secretary, Miss May Duffee, read the minutes of the last meeting also a very interesting letter from Mrs. Clementson who with her family moved to Louisville, Ky., recently.

Mrs. Clickner spoke of letters received in regard to a special appeal for funds to aid the needy in China and Japan received from the Board of Foreign Missions. It was suggested that this aid could be given by sending a $50 membership to the Board and this to be in the name of Mrs. C. H. Thoroman, who has been a faithful worker in the society for many years. A motion to this effect was made by Mrs. Frank Jackson and seconded by Mrs. O. D. Farquhar. Motion carried. A $50 membership to the Board of National Missions, voted on at the last meeting had been received and framed and was to be presented to Mrs. A. J. Walker, now a shut-in but still a valued and faithful member.

Mrs. M. L. Clark, treasurer gave her report. Group leaders were called upon to present their offerings. Mrs. Clark Pensyl gave the Offertory prayer.

Mrs. Clickner appointed as auditing committee, Miss Vera Veil and Mrs. W. E. Klever. Mrs. Perse Harlow reported 110 greetings sent, all with personal messages during the past month.

Mrs. Clickner then asked for the delayed report of the nominating committee, Mrs. Frank Jackson, Mrs. Clark Pensyl and Mrs. Lydia Williams. The following names were presented. President, Mrs. Charles Reinke; first vice president, Mrs. M. J. Whitfield; second vice president, Mrs. Perse Harlow; third vice president, Mrs. C. L. Musser; secretary, Miss May Duffee; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clara Schwartz; treasurer, Mrs. M. L. Clark. Secretaries—literature, Mrs. W. F. Rettig; spiritual life and stewardship, Mrs. C. H. Thoroman; national and foreign missions, Mrs. John Moormaw; national and overseas hospital work, Mrs. C. S. Kelley; membership, Mrs. Richard Rankin; missionary mail, Mrs. Maude Howland; pianist, Mrs. Russell Geiblehouse.

It was moved by Mrs. Jackson that these names be accepted and was seconded by Mrs. Arthur Lealand, motion carried. There were no installation ceremonies.

In the absence of the new president, Mrs. Charles Reinke, Mrs. M. J. Whitfield announced that a board meeting would be held at the church house next Monday afternoon, also that Mrs. George Welge would be guest speaker at the meeting in January.

Mrs. Clickner read the names of group chairman, No. 1 Mrs. Olive Dewey, No. 2 Mrs. Mary Jane Gardner, No. 3 Mrs. Helen Elliott, night groups Mrs. Stanley Scott and Mrs. Archie McCullough.

Mrs. Ray Farley had charge of devotions and program. She gave a little sermon on what religion really means, gave a poem, a Christmas story and the real meaning of Christmas, the birthday of Christ, with several down to earth facts about Christian duty.

Mrs. Farley then announced the first number on the program, a vocal solo "Oh Come Let Us Adore Him", beautifully given by Miss Marian Osborn, accompanied by Mrs. Marian Gage at the organ.

Mrs. Farley then introduced Mrs. O. D. Farquhar, who in her always pleasing manner gave a reading of the Christmas story "The Fool" written by Channing Pollock. The story of a man living as he thought Christ would want him to live.

Mrs. Clickner closed the meeting by thanking all for their help and attendance during the year and wishing all a happy yuletide season.

Tempting refreshments were served in the dining room, members of the executive board acting as hostesses with Mrs. Dorothy Clark chairman.

Meeting Postponed

The Good Hope D. of A. Christmas party and gift exchange, which was scheduled to be held on Tuesday, December 13, at Wayne Hall, has been postponed indefinitely on account of illness.

Before storing cheese in the refrigerator wrap tightly in waxed paper or aluminum foil and then place in a covered container.

Class Enjoys Christmas Party At Meeting

Mrs. Ronald Cornwell extended the hospitality of her home on Tuesday evening to the members of the Leadership Training Class of First Presbyterian Church for the regular meeting, Christmas party and gift exchange, with forty-four members present.

The class president, Mrs. Archie McCullough, presided over the business session, opening with impressive Christmas devotionals given by Miss Helen Simons.

Mrs. James Wilson gave the treasurer's report, and Mrs. Donald King gave the secretary's report.

It was decided to buy a Health Bond, and a discussion on assistance to three families at Christmas time was held and cards will be sent to all occupants of rest homes in this city at Christmas.

A rising vote of thanks was given to the anonymous donor of a basket of food, left at the home of Mrs. Cornwell recently, which will be given to a needy family, as directed by a note in the basket.

The meeting was adjourned and Christmas contests were enjoyed with several prizes awarded.

The highlight of the evening was the gift exchange and the presenting of a gift by the class to the teacher, Mrs. Clark Pensyl, and to the retiring president, Mrs. McCullough.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants Mrs. Harold Hyer, Miss Kathleen Stookey and Mrs. De Lisle Williams and the members lingered for informal visiting and a pleasant social hour.

Plentiful apples may be chopped an add to griddle cake or waffle batter or to muffins.

Dinner Precedes Christmas Party Of D of A Club

The regular dinner meeting of the Past Councillor's Club D of A and the annual Christmas party was held at the home of Miss Ethel Stewardson Tuesday with twenty five members and one guest Mrs. Edna Snack of Columbus present.

The group enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner at one large table and smaller tables each centered with pink and white mums. The business session following was presided over by Mrs. Elza Sander-son and opened with giving of the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Leonard Dillinger as devotional leader read the Christmas Story from St. Luke. The usual reports were heard and election of officers resulted in Mrs. Sander-son being chosen as president,

Miss Ethel Stewardson, vice president Mrs. Albert Hyer, secretary, Mrs. Herman Easter, treasurer and press reporter Mrs. Ted Pierson. Names were drawn for "polluck sisters."

At the close of the meeting the members enjoyed a gift exchange. Mrs. Ted Merritt will entertain members at the next meeting and the officers of the organization will serve as hostesses.

Assisting Miss Stewardson during the evening were: Mrs. Leonard Dillinger and Mrs. Charles Stewardson.

Former WHS Lion Shares Trophy As Wilmington College Gridder

BILL RUDDUCK OF WASHINGTON C. H. and former Lion football star, and Ron Millar of Massillon were chosen the outstanding stars of the Wilmington College football for the season recently ended. They are shown above—Rudduck at right and Millar in center—being presented the Carr Brothers Trophy by William T. Creamer, president of the Wilmington College Alumni Association. The names of the players are engraved on the trophy which remains at the college.

Bill Rudduck, the diminutive halfback who ran wild over the gridirons in these parts for the Lions of WHS back in the early war years, today has become one of the immortals of Wilmington College football.

Bill, who is now married, has been chosen as one of two outstanding players on the 1949 Wilmington College team. Ron Millar of Massillon was the team mate sharing the honor.

Both boys have had their names inscribed on the Carr Brothers Trophy as the best players of the season.

The trophy, more than three feet tall, was presented to the college last fall by three Carr brothers—LaRue, '08, Guy, '09 and Herbert, '17.

Practical Gifts Problem for Santa

CHICAGO —(AP)— Give the kids Christmas gifts that will make them use their heads and hands, advises Miss Melba Reay, instructor of arts and crafts at George Williams college, Chicago.

"Because most toys are ready-made, children are learning to expect ready-made answers or printed instructions for all of life's problems, and never have a chance to develop the imaginative, creative spirit and skill that are so urgently needed in the adult world," she says. "Children need practice in executing their ideas with their hands."

Indians Used Wampum In Diplomatic Crisis

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. —(AP)— American Indians used wampum for more than just money, says Dr. Wilbur R. Jacobs, Santa Barbara College historian. He reports wampum figured importantly in diplomatic relations among tribes. Jacobs says belts were used to cement alliances, prevent disputes and also to identify messengers and "ambassadors" to tribal councils.

Air Raid Shelter To Be Bird Roost

BERLIN —(AP)— A giant air raid shelter in Berlin is being turned into a sanctuary for birds.

Workmen with power shovels have started a project to bury the bunker in the zoological gardens where thousands of Berliners once found haven from allied bombers.

Trees and bushes will be planted atop the pile so that by next summer the cultivation should present a sylvan appearance. The zoo is planning to import birds and turn the mound into a sanctuary by next fall.

Big Wild Life Year For National Parks

WASHINGTON —(AP)— It has been a big year for wild life in U. S. national parks.

The Interior Department report a lazuli bunting was observed in Glacier National Park, the first bird of that kind seen there in several years.

Snowshoe rabbits appeared to be more numerous in Isle Royale National Park, Mich., than in several years.

Numerous deer were seen in the south rim section of Black Canyon in Gunnison National Monument, Colo., as early as June. They are not usually seen there until fall.

Britons Wooing Tourist Dollars

Government Help Now Being Sought

BY WILLIAM N. OATIS

LONDON, Dec. 8 —(AP)— Leaders of the British Travel Association expect 170,000 visitors from the United States to spend $75,000,000 in this country next year.

They say the British government should give them more hotels to stay in, more gasoline to buy, 48-hour laundry service—and a chance to spend every last dollar they bring over.

The association is the tourist division of the British Tourist and Holidays Board. Lord Hacking, its chairman, and John C. Bridges, its director general, reviewed 1950 tourist prospects at a news conference.

Bridges forecast the whopping crowd of free-spending American visitors and looked forward to "the biggest tourist year we have ever experienced."

Just back from a 15,000-mile tour of the United States and Canada, he said one of the things Britain must do is work up a two-day laundry service.

"While Britons have a world wide reputation for service," he explained, "Americans are equally famous for expecting it."

Best Travel Bargain

Bridges said Britain already is the world's best travel bargain—since the pound was devalued from $4.03 to $2.80 in September—but he'd like to see things develop to the point where a visitor could tour the country for $500.

Lord Hacking made these points: The government should give more encouragement to hotel building.

It should allow visitors all the gasoline they want—if they pay in dollars—instead of the three-month, 1,600 mile ration to which they are now limited.

Also, it should quit treating them all "as if they are crooks" just because it is afraid of a few black marketers.

Lord Hacking noted that a tourist now is restricted in the amount of goods he can buy free of Britain's 33 1-3 to 100 per cent purchase taxes—unless he sends the goods straight to his ship from the store.

"Women particularly resent restrictions which prevent them from wearing what they buy while they are here," he said.

Lord Hacking concluded sadly: "It is wrong for Americans to say to me, as they have, that they are taking dollars back in their pockets because they had not been allowed to spend them here."

Britain, like almost every other country in the world, needs all the dollars she can get.

Hoover Commission Has Foe In Legion

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 8 —(AP)— Bruce Henderson of Warren, state commander, told the Columbiana County American Legion council the Ohio American Legion is opposed to the adoption of the Hoover commission's report.

"The report is far worse for veterans than the infamous economy bill of 1933, which removed many of the benefits won for veterans of World War I," he told the 200 Legionnaires.

"The Legion stands for economy in government, but not at the expense of veterans." He asserted that "85 million dollars has been raised to secure congressional adoption in 'package form'."

Easy To Teach Music to Child

Rhythm Natural
Says Kay Kyser

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
It's easy to teach a child how to understand music, says Kay Kyser. The popular "Professor of the College of Musical Knowledge" maintains that right from the cradle practically every child is musical and it is fairly simple to channel his musical talents into constructive lines as he progresses through the years.

In a recent statement, Kyser observed: "You've seen a youngster shaking his rattles, haven't you? He likes the noise it makes and he learns the fundamentals of rhythm at the same time. Later, when that misguided uncle gives him a set of drums for his third Christmas, the child will give you practically endless demonstrations of just how much he knows about rhythm."

The ability to distinguish between harmony and discord comes fairly early, too, he says. When a baby is learning to sit up, prop him near a piano and watch him swing at the keyboard. At first he'll bang away at a fistful of notes every time, but eventually he will make the discovery that he gets a more pleasant tone if he strikes just one key. Later he'll find out that it is even more pleasant when he hits certain combinations of notes.

Nursery rhymes are another important step in the development of musical memory, says Kyser. A child is more likely to be interested in the musical adventures of "Three Blind Mice" than in a Mozart sonata, and it is a good idea to let him progress by easy stages.

"When you are buying toy instruments be sure that they are true to pitch," the "professor" advises. "Otherwise they may set the child back in developing an 'ear' for pitch. With a little guidance you can help the child nursery rhymes and other simple jingles and sing them with some regard for pitch."

What Comes Naturally
Once he is steady on his feet, rhythm begins to mean something more than beating a drum or kicking against the foot of his crib. Give him music that has a strong, definite rhythm (marches are excellent), and his natural impulse is to dance.

Of course, one of the best ways to teach anything is to make it part of daily life. For that reason, a parent who is anxious to teach his child music would do well with a phonograph and a good record library. Simple, rather short selections are best for primary instruction. Show the child pictures of the various musical instruments, then point out how they are used in records being played for him.

Arousing junior's interest in the works of great masters is a job that can be done in easy stages, Kyser says. Saint-Saens, for example, wrote "The Carnival of the Animals," which should delight any child. Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite" and Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" are among other compositions which have an immediate appeal to children and serve as a fine introduction to the more ponderous works by the same composers, he says.

There are some excellent records designed especially to help children start early in their recognition of the classics. For instance, there is one illustrated album narrating simple stories against classical music backgrounds. Here the story of Billy Bee is told to the tune of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Flight of the Bumblebee"; the story of the ugly duckling to Saint-Saens' "The Swan".

Iron Lung Is Used For Battle Shock

DENVER.—(P)—The U. S. Navy is sponsoring a pulsating chamber as a possible lifesaver for men wounded during sea battles.

The idea is to shove a man, close to dying of shock, into one of these chambers, with assurance that he will be kept alive almost automatically until surgeons can attend him. Shock is one of the commonest causes of quick death from battle wounds. Plasma escapes into the tissues and lowers blood pressure. Hearts may get enough blood to pump and a man may faint because of lack of enough blood in his brain.

The chamber, known as the Thunberg apparatus, is like an iron lung. Studies are being made by Dr. Fred E. DAmour and Dr. Donn L. Smith at the University of Denver.

GRASS AND SOIL
One of the most important agents in conservation and rehabilitation is GRASS, which is just as valuable in the dry regions of the world as it is in the wet. It is just the same with grass when it is pushed into the dry areas as it is with wheat. The problem is to find suitable varieties for the region, then by selection and breeding to improve them. Since these dry areas are used more for grazing than for cropping, it is necessary to find grasses or leguminous plants suitable not only for soil conservation but also for grazing. In fact, of course, soil conservation always comes first. Active research on this problem is going on throughout the world. Both the U. S. Forest Service and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in this country are engaged in intensive research on this problem for the different regions of the United States. A recent survey by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service of four of our western states showed that only about five percent of the range was producing its maximum output, while no more than 15 percent was in good condition. The report concluded that on some 80 percent of the range forage production could be doubled by the use of proper conservation practices.

Of course we must accept the fact that the world's population is growing more rapidly than its power to produce food. Nevertheless while there is no grounds for complacency, there is also none for despair. With intelligence and hard work the food problem for our generation and the next can be solved. All the same we agree with Sir E. John Russell, who says writing in British Agriculture "the shrill sensationalism of our more pessimistic writers will serve a useful purpose of it arouses if it arouses a widespread determination to keep our land as intact as possible."

Conservation And Erosion
Terracing of sloping land helps to control erosion and to hold water where the rain falls—in the soil where it can be of service.

As a part of a coordinated program of dovetailing practices, terracings also helps to prevent washing in heavy rains. Unprotected soil can be and often is washed away in a short time and it takes many, many years to replace it. It is doubtful whether the new topsoil that man can make at great expense to replace that which has washed away is anywhere near as good as the original that took Nature hundreds of years to make.

Contouring on state experimental farms reduced soil losses by 50 to 80 percent. Planting corn on the contour on rolling land reduced the topsoil losses by 50 percent.

In cooperation with 260 farmers in one soil conservation district, where accurate check was made over a period of five years and under different weather and soil conditions farming on the contour raised yields an average of 7.3 bushels per acre for corn and 5.4 bushels for oats.

Marriage 'Penalty' For Young Speeder

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8 —(AP)—Traffic Judge Roger A. Pfaff indicated he was going to sentence a speeder to 90 days. But when he learned the offender was to be married, he performed the rites forthwith.

Motorcyclist Blair B. Bernbaum, 19, appeared before the judge on the speeding charge yesterday. It was his 14th citation.

"You should ask a psychiatrist what's wrong with you," said Judge Pfaff.

Bernbaum pleaded that he was soon to be married, pointed to his fiancée, Georgia May Jones of Burbank, in the courtroom and produced a marriage license.

"Marriage," said Judge Pfaff, "is as good, if not better, than any psychiatrist examination." And he performed the ceremony then and there.

FINLAND'S MRS. QUISLING

Reporter Finds Hertta Kuusinen No Pin-Up

By ESTHER V. W. TUFTY
Central Press Correspondent
ROVANIEMI, Finland—1 have met Hertta Kuusinen, the good girl friend of the Kremlin in Finland. By any American standards Hertta is no pin-up girl.

Until our party of reporters met this brown-eyed evangelist of Communism, we were tempted to make her the glamor girl of the recent Communist-inspired strike. (We had been warned against giving her a powerful publicity buildup.)

When she speaks to an audience of her disciples Hertta becomes magnetic, but otherwise she is an ordinary, middle-aged woman. A hausfrau in build, she is distinguished only by better clothes than the average Finn can afford.

A top American has described Hertta as a clever, hard-boiled politician. Her first husband, Tuoro Lehen, a Finn, became a Red general and a Russian citizen.

Hertta's second husband, Yrjo Leino, once the powerful secretary of Interior, was kicked out in disgrace. Whether or not they are still married is a talked-about question in Helsinki.

SHE IS THE TRUE daughter of her "Quisling" father, Otto Kuusinen, who headed the Finnish government set up by Russians when they first invaded Finland in 1939. Today he is the president of the Karelian Republic, made up partly of that big bite of land the Russian Bear clawed out of Finland.

However, the Laplanders don't worry about Hertta, her Kremlin-disciplined, or even the Big Red Bear next door. They are busy rebuilding.

Besides, here in this little town of Rovaniemi the big political issue is one that doesn't concern Hertta and her ilk.

Hertta Kuusinen

The local voters, living just five miles from the Arctic Circle, want to know why their home town is not in the Circle.

One political faction argues that since the Circle was originally designated as that portion upon which shines the Northern Lights, then it is correct the town be included. The magic arc is discernible as early as September.

Deputy Mayor Vaino Kosenen of Rovaniemi calls the exclusion "rank discrimination."

It's that local Arctic Circle issue, and not Hertta and her Red pals, which will be talked about in the long winter evenings, while outside the snow falls, the reindeers graze, and the northern lights shine on.

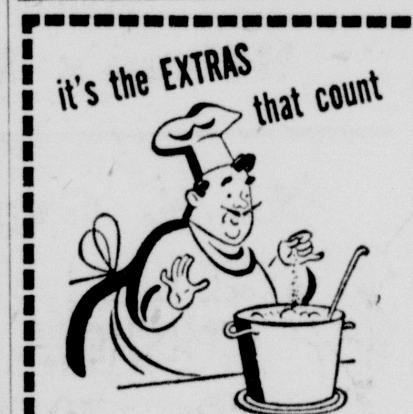

Radioactive Liquid Is Used In New Skin Cancer Treatment

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—(P)—A new treatment for skin cancer, swabbed on like iodine on a scratch, has been revealed.

Two specialists told of using a radioactive liquid, thorium X, on 39 patients who had 51 cancers of the skin. In every case but one, the skin lesions disappeared.

Dr. J. J. Sher and Dr. William E. Howes, both of Brooklyn (N. Y.) Cancer Institute, told about the new, simple treatment at a meeting of the radiological society of North America.

They began work on the patients a year ago, after developing the technique a little more than Thorium is a grayish white, lustrous metal which is radioactive in its natural state.

The liquid must be applied by a doctor, as no radioactive substance may be sold directly to the public. It is swabbed on with an ordinary cotton-tipped piece of wood.

The treatment calls for eight weekly visits by the patient. The doctors said the patient feels no pain or discomfort. They also reported the liquid has none of the hazards commonly connected with X-ray and radium treatment.

GOP-Dixiecrat Tie Hit by Republican

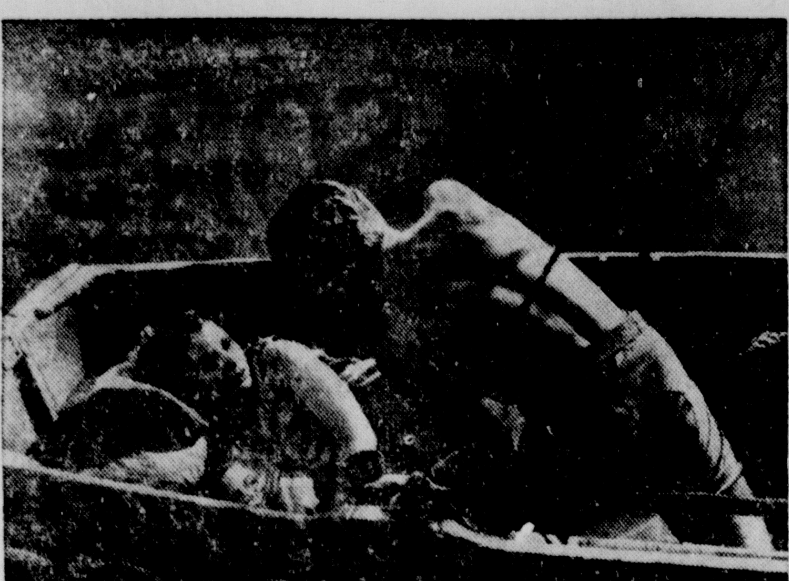

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—(P)—Cuyahoga County Republican Chairman George Bender says a proposal for a coalition of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats is an invitation to the GOP party to "commit suicide."

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) recently suggested formation of such a new group.

Bender, a former congressman, declared yesterday the move would achieve nothing substantial "for the welfare of the nation or the strengthening of the party."

It would neither win friends or gain votes, the local GOP leader added.

Republican members of city council Monday night expressed disapproval of Bricker's suggestion and passed a resolution censuring him.

A PROGRAM OF ROMANCE AND adventure has been combined in a double bill that is to open the week's entertainment at the State Theater. In a colorful story of the South Seas, "The Blue Lagoon," Jean Simmons and Donald Houston take the leading roles. On the same program will be "Once More My Darling," a tale of the man-about-town who meets a girl. The leads are taken by Robert Montgomery and Ann Blyth. The new bill starts Saturday and runs through Tuesday.

China Premier Is In Flight

CHENG TU, Dec. 8.—(P)—Premier Yen Hsi-Shan today whittled his government to 107 men and prepared to go over the mountains away from the approaching Communists.

Streaming of the government was made necessary, Yen said, to keep it mobile. Ordinarily the Chinese Nationalist government is composed of thousands of persons within ministries and bureaus. Hundreds were dropped in Chungking.

Yen is expected to take his slim government forces in Sichang in mountainous Sikang Province to the west.

Toothache Magnified To Ease Childs Fear

NEW YORK.—(P)—A magnifying glass, set so that children can look into their own mouths, stops their fears of the dentist, says Charles A. Levinson of Brookline, Mass. He used the glass when children fear even to have their teeth examined.

"Do you want to see television or movies right in your own mouth?" he asks. Invariably he says the children reply "Yes". And they permit the checkup.

Customers' Corner

The anti-trust lawyers who want to put A & P out of business don't like our low price policy. They say we use it to drive competitors out of business.

Actually, as every customer knows, our low price policy is designed to do just one thing: Give you more good food for your money.

Here are the facts about our low price policy:

1. We keep our profits at a minimum. They averaged less than 1 1/2 cents on each dollar of sales during the past five years.
2. We have for years had a strict policy against below-cost selling.
3. We do not have any "weekend specials" but feature low prices the whole week long.
4. We charge the lowest practical prices everywhere we operate.

That is why we say, regardless of where you live, you will save money week in and week out by doing all your shopping at A & P.

PANTRY PROVISIONS

No matter when you shop in the Grocery Department of your A&P, you'll find the price that's marked on every can, jar and package attractively low. Stop by and see!

- At what each figure on your Cash Register Slip refers to...
- At what you spent for certain items last time you bought them...

Do you keep track of your expenditures as you shop... check your purchases against your cash register slip as you put them away... compare current prices with those you've been paying? We don't blame you a bit for those thrifty habits. In fact, we're making them easier for you by marking the price of every item in your A&P right on its container, as well as on our shelves. Stop in and see how helpful this new price-marking policy can be to you!

Temptingly Tender and Juicy, Sensibly Priced "SUPER-RIGHT" MEATS

Because A&P selects only corn-fed beef and pork, milk-fed veal and fine-quality lamb, "Super-Right" meats are always tender and juicy... And because A&P is satisfied with only a small profit per pound, they're always sensibly priced. They give you more good eating for your money, too... thanks to A&P's policy of removing excess waste from every cut before weighing it.

Men's Night At Craig's Set For Next Wednesday

'Men Only' Sign To Be Out For Sales People, Customers

Craig's Men's Nite, an event of the Christmas shopping season to many local menfolks, will be held at Craig's department store next Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 P. M. according to an announcement made today.

For two hours the store will be opened for men shoppers only. There will be entertainment, smokes and eats for store visitors during this annual event.

Started many years ago to give the men of the community a "party" and to welcome them for a visit in the store sections usually filled with women. Craig's Men's Nite has become a social and shopping event eagerly anticipated by hundreds of men.

The men of Craig's regular force with a group of other business and professional men of the city become Santa's Helpers on Men's Nite and make up the store personnel, complete with greeters, floorwalkers, elevator starters and salesmen.

Craig's will have Walter Shoop and his accorion a music treat in itself, a Dutch lunch presided over by one of the city's leading financiers, a Coca Cola bar, smokes and souvenirs. An invitation has been extended to men of the county and city to drop in during the evening. A hearty welcome will be given at the door by well-known "greeters," who have been instructed that this is an event for "Men Only."

A gift wrapping service and a special place where Christmas presents may be stored until called for will help many men in their shopping. Craig's definitely promises that secrets will be faithfully kept in the belief that Christmas presents should carry a surprise also.

As to what goes on in the store on Men's Nite only the visitors and "Santa's Helpers" will know.

But from the popularity of this event is well known among local menfolks, who enjoy the evening to the limit and count on Craig's Men's Nite from year to year.

India's Moonshine Good to Last Drop

NEW DELHI, India.—(AP)—A member of the constituent assembly has complained that prohibition enforcement officers in the East Punjab are taking the wrong attitude toward their job.

Sardar Bhupinder Singh Mann told the assembly of several cases where prohibition police had drunk illicit liquor they were supposed to destroy. When asked why they did it, Mann said, the police replied that they did not like to waste "a good thing."

New York Water Shortage Eases

Consumption Cut To Meet Emergency

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Drought-stricken New York City's consumption of water has dropped by 75,000,000 gallons a day since the week ended Oct. 8.

The figure was announced by Water Commissioner Stephen J. Carney.

The city's 8,000,000 residents and its industries used 1,117,000,000 gallons daily last week compared to 1,192,000,000 gallons nine weeks ago.

The drop was "very encouraging," Carney said, because it indicated substantial public cooperation since his department started its "save water" campaign.

"We still must do much better," he said. "We must cut water usage by 200,000,000 gallons daily if we are to bridge the present emergency."

Long lack of substantial rain, and outgrown reservoir facilities have brought the metropolis face-to-face with the necessity of drastic measures to conserve the dwindling water supply.

Neighboring New Jersey, also stuck by the shortage, heard threat of water rationing.

Jersey City will start lowering water pressure today, following the lead of Elizabeth and many other cities. Jersey City residents have already been told that those who live in fourth floors or higher will get only a dribble from their faucets.

In tiny Roosevelt, many cellars were full of water yesterday. The town, dry for a week, finally found water by drilling its two artesian wells deeper.

Then the water rushed into oil burners and burst the hot coils flooding the cellars.

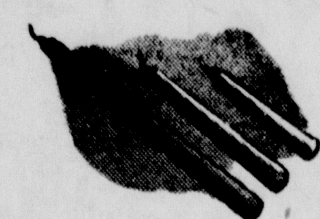

Rutgers University in New Brunswick has cut down its athletic classes by more than a third. Water that would have bathed perspiring athletes in the showers will be saved.

Marbus Tushnet, president of the state association of master hairdressers, asked beauty parlors to eliminate extra rinsing when they give shampoos.

He said more than 74,000,000 gallons could be saved each day by doing away with the extra rinse.

Germans Plan For Christmas

Bars Are Lowered On Soviet Control

By PAUL R. BLOCK

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 8. — (AP) — This Christmas, for the first time since the war, Germans are sending Christmas parcels both east and west.

German parcels to the east will go almost exclusively to prisoners of war still in Russia, Yugoslavia and other eastern countries. Parcels to the west will go to friends and relatives in western countries.

However, red tape does not make it easy for those sending parcels.

Packages sent eastward may contain food and articles for daily use, such as toilet articles and clothing. But any parcel containing printed matter, messages, books, or newspapers used for wrapping material is subject to confiscation.

Gifts Are Limited

Parcels sent to the western countries contain mostly small valueless items. Nothing having trade value—cameras, for instance, is permitted. Anyway, the receiver would have to pay heavy duty on the item.

Antiques, souvenirs and needlework are permitted, however, so it is a sure bet that thousands of people will receive such items instead of the beautiful Meissen china sets their friends would like to send them.

The German Red Cross and the state radio sponsored a drive to provide Christmas parcels for Germans spending their fifth Christmas behind barbed wire. It was a great success. Germans in the three western occupation zones and Berlin gave about 67,000 individually packed parcels. Almost a quarter-million marks ($100,000) in cash was donated. This is being used by the Red Cross to buy additional parcels.

Germans apparently do not trust Herr Wilhelm Pieck, president of the Eastern German Government. He promised recently that all German prisoners still in Russia would be back in Germany before 1950.

Red Cross Interested

The Red Cross particularly is interested in sending packages to prisoners of war who have lost both homes and families. There are about 15,000 such prisoners in Russia alone, the Red Cross estimates. Most of these lived in the eastern German territories now annexed by Poland and Russia.

Many German families who cannot afford to send their prisoner relatives parcels have asked the Red Cross to send packages for them and the Red Cross is doing that. Altogether, the organization hopes to send 90,000 parcels to Germans still interned in prisoner camps.

Most of the westbound parcels are destined for the United States. Many go to Australia, South America, Britain and other countries.

Foodstuffs are taboo in these parcels. However, when a parcel contains a few Christmas cookies the German customs officials seem suddenly afflicted with poor eyesight.

Nazi literature and cuckoo clocks are "verboten." Many senders try to smuggle flags, standards and other military emblems into the parcels, customs officials report. These "souvenirs" are regularly thrown out. Once in a while, a bar of chocolate finds its way into a Britain-bound parcel. Sweets are still rationed in England, but anybody can buy practically unlimited amounts of chocolate here.

Jammed Classrooms Problem In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8. — (AP) — The education council, research group of the Ohio Education Association, said the problem of overcrowded classrooms has become critical in many Ohio communities. It suggested the possibility of withholding state funds from schools which maintain such bulging room enrollments as "the only effective way of controlling class size." The suggestion was made in a study which will be submitted to the OEA representative assembly here Dec. 8-10.

The report said more than 30 students per teacher is "undesirable."

At the root of the problem is the recent increase in school enrollments—largely since the war years. The number of teachers, number of rooms in which to instruct and school operating funds have not increased in proportion to number of students.

At holiday times turkey may mean a big meal, but in radio slang it's a program that has been a complete failure.

Ritual Murders Create Problem

293 Bodies Found
In Seven Years

BY R. F. S. DEWDNEY
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ritual murders in Basutoland are presenting British authorities with one of their most difficult problems in African administration.

In this normally law abiding country, where half the population are Christians, the bodies of 293 victims of ritual murders have been found by police in the last seven years. There is reason to believe at least twice as many cases have gone undetected.

In the same period 121 Basutos have been convicted of ritual murders and 72 acquitted. Judges of the Basutoland high court have sentenced both men and women to death in batches from five to 17, but it has made little impression. The gruesome killings go on.

A ritual murder, as practiced by the Basutos, consists of seizing a victim and cutting various portions off his body, possibly skinning and scalping him, while he is still alive. "Medicine" made from the blood or the body after death is considered useless.

When mutilation is complete the victim is knocked on the head, throttled or flung over a cliff.

In trying to stamp out these crimes colonial authorities find themselves up against a blanket of silence. Villagers will not testify or give evidence against one another or refuse to incriminate the witch doctors and chiefs believed responsible.

Fear and Superstition

The natives are tongue-tied by fear and superstition. This makes convictions so difficult that Mr. Justice F. E. T. Krause, in sentencing one Basuto to death and acquitting four others recently, suggested provision be made in the law for a verdict of "not proven" to enable police to charge a man a second time if additional evidence becomes available.

In this particular case an old woman nearly 100 was slain. Her son, 73, told the court he agreed to sell his mother to the accused for 40 pounds ($112).

The motives behind the murders are obscure, but generally are attributed to the desire of chiefs and witch doctors to regain their former powers, weakened under Christianity and modern progress. To do so they have fallen back on age-old customs and superstitions that are still only just under the surface of most Basuto skins.

In trying to trace the blood trail to its psychological source and find some more effective than the gallows the British colonial office sent out Professor G. I. Jones, lecturer in anthropology at Cambridge University.

For the last three months Jones has been probing deep into the villages and mountains of Basutoland. His report soon will be in the hands of the British high Commissioner, Sir Evelyn Baring, and will be a basis for a discussion of the whole subject in London.

Professor Jones also is investigating the possibility that portions of the human victims of Basutoland ritual murders are being sold to the illicit drink trade.

In the slums of Johannesburg and most towns of South Africa, the Shebeen Queen is a power. In secret hideouts she brews the favorite African drink "Skokiaan," a type of beer fermented from corn meal and yeast and more often than not containing carbide or some other ingredient to give it an additional kick.

Periodic raids by the police mean the Shebeen Queens must be quick on the brew and skilled

"I FELT SICK," Charles Howard, 29, told doctors at California's Los Angeles county jail hospital, explaining his coloring changed from black to white within a year. "Then I noticed that cracks appeared in my skin. They gradually increased in size and became large blisters." Howard, sentenced to three months for allegedly stealing $64 from a Marine, is now almost completely white-skinned, including his hair and eyebrows. (International)

Tourist Guides Face Restraints

British Resent Fantastic Tales

By DONALD B. SCHWIND
LONDON, Dec. 8—(P)—British plans to clamp hard next year on phony guides who make up their English history as they go along.

By cleaning up the guide business—especially in history-crammed old London—the government-sponsored Travel Association also hopes to protect gullible American tourists from seedy little men who conceivably might try to sell Nelson's Column or some horses of the household cavalry.

The association will launch its campaign for better and more accurate guides January 1 when it sets up a voluntary central register for qualified guides.

Bona fide guides will wear badges and carry certificates indicating that they know their English history.

Story of Poor Nell

Prime sore spot with the association, a spokesman said, is the fly-by-night guide who

"makes free with Nell Gwynn's reputation."

Nell's career as orange girl, actress and mistress of Charles II is a favorite plaything for British guides with a flair for invention. To hear some of them tell it, few London boudoirs failed to provide a setting for the antics of "pretty, witty Nell."

"These men say much the same thing about poor old Queen Bess," complained 37-year-old Bryant Peers, who is in charge of the campaign.

Peers, a former schoolmaster and a student of Medieval History, says tons of undistinguished London rock and used timber pass into tourist baggage as "authentic" pieces of the House of Parliament or Nelson's Trafalgar Flagship "Victory."

Prices Are Hiked

The prices are stiff, he said, and the racketeering guide charges all he thinks the traffic will bear. The "Victory," Peers pointed out, is still lying intact at Portsmouth.

"Crooked guides steer the tourists to shops where the prices are sky high and the guide gets a secret rake-off," Peers declared. "We are determined to stop that sort of thing."

However, he added, present British law can't reach the incompetent or crooked guide. "Anybody can offer to guide anybody around London and nothing can be done about it."

Peers and the association are pressing for a law to license guides. He said reputable guide agencies and free-lance guides were backing the campaign.

Noronic Disaster Books Are Closed

TORONTO, Dec. 8—(P)—The Ontario attorney-general's department considers the Noronic fire disaster a closed case.

Attorney-General Dana Porter said last night that review of the inquiry evidence by Justice R. L. Kellock of the supreme court of Canada showed no foundation for any criminal charges.

When Justice Kellock's report on the cruise-ship disaster, in which 118 persons lost their lives Sept. 17, was released recently at Ottawa, the question of criminal charges was left to the attorney-general's department. The Kellock commission ordered suspension for a year of the certificate of the Noronic's master, Captain William Taylor of Sarnia, Ont. Capt. Taylor said at Sarnia yesterday that he plans no appeal.

Nails waiting to be used can be prevented from rusting by sprinkling with machine oil.

Dunkerque, France, a famed battleground of World War II, also is remembered for the 51-month siege it endured under the guns of World War I.

Mersin, which has a population of 30,000, is Turkey's third ranking port. In ancient times it was known as Mersina.

WHEN "inflammatory" reports about a commodity appear housewives and other users want to carry larger stocks, thus contributing to unwarranted price rises, John C. Gardner, president New York Coffee and Sugar exchange, tells a Senate committee in Washington investigating rising coffee prices. (International)

Hamilton Teachers Get $275 Raise

HAMILTON, Dec. 8—(P)—Hamilton school teachers and other public school employees got good pre-Christmas news today—pay increases effective Jan. 1.

Walter Crewson, superintendent of schools, announced the board of education a pay boost of $275 a year for each of the 310 teachers in the public school system and $198 a year for each of the 78 non-teaching employees.

APPARENTLY reflecting on his predicament, Ralph Coolack, 35, of Morristown, N. J., is shown in the Morris County Jail, Newark, N. J., where he is being held in the double slaying of his former girl friend, Irene Swetz Poole, and her husband, Arthur. The couple was shot to death in a Whippany, N. J., tavern, police say. Once Vermin Ridden Dixie Jail Is Now Women's Civic Club

Ivy-covered Homerville, Ga., ex-jail now houses women's club.

By S. R. WINTERS
Central Press Correspondent
HOMERVILLE, Ga.—The poet who wrote "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage" may have indulged in poetic license. But here in Homerville, a one-time jail is now a women's club.

The red-brick, tile-roofed building, once honeycombed with prison cells, is now outfitted with a new piano, a polished desk, 40 mahogany chairs and a huge mirror. This strange twist of a jail becoming luxurious quarters where women could gather to discuss civic matters, conduct song fests, and plan worthy town projects, stemmed from a combination of unrelated circumstances.

The original structure had no bath rooms, and the sewage system was wholly inadequate. The county commissioners condemned the structure but in doing so they faced a dilemma—whether to raze the building at an almost prohibitive cost or let it remain unoccupied.

THE ODD IDEA of transforming the jail into club quarters was originated by Mrs. M. D. Dickson. The commissioners agreed to lease the building, not for the usual 99 years, but for a quarter of a century. The county retained nominal possession of a small room and leased the remainder of the jail for $1,500. However, the Women's club had only $500 in the bank.

It was decided to raise the remaining $1,000 through "Civic Improvement Certificates." The Clinch County News reported: "The club has issued Civic Improvement Certificates to the amount of $1,000. The bonds are $25 apiece, they bring 6 per cent interest, and come in series of one to six years. Over half of these bonds have been sold and it is the desire of the club to continue the sale throughout the next few days."

THE COST of renting the old jail was thus met. The citizens who bought the certificates have not demanded redemption of the bonds. These civic-minded folk have written off the account as an investment in their town's welfare and progress.

Meanwhile, this ex-prison has been landscaped with cedars, palms, shrubs, and flowers. It has a tall, double front door, with a three-foot-wide enclosed entrance, and floors and steps of concrete. The outmoded structure now has bath rooms, reception room, and modern kitchen equipment.

Where once "iron bars" did make "a cage," a piano thumps out music, and club members chit-chat about the town's civic growth and welfare.

The remodeled building, where once prisoners languished, has been shorn of its old cells, the walls cleaned and painted, and the traditional woman's touch almost lends beauty to the Maltese cross-shaped structure.

Seal Sale Nets $1800 to Date

Role of TB Society Is Explained Here

With 4,000 letters still unanswered, the 1949 Christmas Seal campaign in Fayette County has netted approximately $1,800 to date.

Paul Strevey, executive secretary of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association, said that returns for the 1,500,000 Christmas Seals mailed out were encouraging, but urged those who have not responded to turn in their contributions as soon as possible.

Practically all of the money, collected in the Seal sale, Strevey reminded, will stay in Fayette County.

It will be used to continue the task of finding people with tuberculosis and helping them get cured, he said.

This work is carried out through the cooperation of the Fayette County Board of Health and local physicians.

The essential role the TB and Health Association plays in the county health program was pointed out today by Dr. Gordon E. Savage, Fayette County health commissioner.

"At present," Dr. Savage said, "Fayette County has a tuberculosis case finding and follow up program as good as can be found in rural communities."

"Without the money from the Association's Christmas Seal Sale," he said, "this program would be impossible."

As an example, he cited the many chest X-ray clinics paid for by the Association out of the Seal sale money. In following up TB "suspect" cases, to see that they get further diagnosis and recommendations for treatment, the Seal sale money is also essential, Dr. Savage said.

don't realize is that the engine is going right along with you, at least it better be."

The needle-nosed X-1 has four rocket engines developing a total of 25,000 horsepower. Its fuel is alcohol and liquid oxygen. It can remain aloft two and a half minutes.

ITS SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD

A TECHNICOLOR MUSICAL, "Look for the Silver Lining" has been booked to open next week's entertainment program at the Fayette Theater. Starting Sunday, this gay movie featuring June Haver and Gordon MacRae, a new singing star, will run for two days.

Autograph Hunting Stimulating Hobby

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Autographs of Rudyard Kipling, George Gershwin, Dr. Lise Meitner and Margaret Mitchell are among the most sought-after by collectors today, one expert says.

Describing autograph collecting as a highly stimulating and profitable hobby, collector Robley Stevens writing in the magazine "Hobby Digest" listed other "most sought after" signatures as: Prof. Albert Einstein, President F. D. Roosevelt, Justice Felix Frankfurter, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, Gen. George Marshall, Cordell Hull, Charles (not Thomas) Edison.

Commercial autograph catalogues list the following prices:

100 MPH Faster than Sound Admitted by Air Force Flier

DAYTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Capt. Charles Yeager, air force test pilot, disclosed today he had flown 100 miles an hour faster than the speed of sound "and then some."

It was the 26-year-old flier's first public announcement disclosing the extent to which he had exceeded the speed of sound, which is 760 M. P. H. at sea level.

The feat was accomplished in the air force's X-1 rocket plane, which Yeager has flown 30 times.

The accomplishment was made in an exclusive interview obtained by Herbert Shaw, aviation writer for the Dayton Daily News.

Yeager was interviewed at headquarters of the Air Materiel Command at the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. He returned three weeks ago from tests at Muroc Field, Calif. And what was his sensation while traveling at a super-sonic speed?

"Anybody," replied the Morgantown, W. Va., native, "can fly faster than sound as long as he wants to so far as the physical effects are concerned."

"That fact is, it's no different than sitting in your armchair at home."

How about noise?

"Sure there is noise, but little of it comes from the speed of the plane. That's evident mostly in the form of whistling as the air pours over the cockpit. But you get other noise from the rocket engines and a transmission noise from the same source. What you

Most Valuable Farm Products? Some Argue It Is Its People

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(P)—The complaint often is heard in agricultural circles that city folks seem to forget that farms supply urban areas with more than food and fiber.

Farms, it is pointed out, supply the cities with people.

Usually this complaint is raised in connection with the perennial argument over whether the farmer is getting too much or too little for his products.

Cities must pay for the food and fiber products, but they get the people free of charge. So it is argued.

This matter of migration of farm folks to the cities is likely to press forward more and more as an argument for prices favorable to agricultural products.

It will be voiced along these lines:

Rural families continue to supply more than their proportionate share of the nation's children. Nearly half of the children now under 14 years of age are in rural families.

Naturally cities must look to rural families for a part of their workers and citizens. Without additions from rural areas most cities would decline in size because of their relatively smaller birth rates.

The quality of the farm-reared future residents of the cities depends in great measure on the educational opportunities in rural areas.

In other words, it is argued rural areas are burdened with the cost of educating a large number of children who migrate eventually to the city to spend their productive lives.

The level of education which rural areas are able to give farm children—both those who remain on the land and those who migrate to the cities—is determined in large measure, the farm leaders argue, by the prices which farm products get for their products.

Rural schools, as a whole, rank below those of the cities in quality. This condition is said to reflect the income status of agriculture as compared with that of non-agricultural groups.

Taking notice of the difference in educational advantages in the city and in rural areas, the agriculture department said in a recent report that fewer farm children remain in school after 15 years of age than city children.

In 1948, a year of relative prosperity for agriculture, 77 percent of the children in cities 15 years or older were still in school, only 59 percent in rural areas. This difference was said to reflect largely the rural family need of children's help in order to make a living.

Also noting that many farm children move to cities, the department said the cities stand to gain by improved rural schools as much, or even more, than does the local rural community.

Gasoline Ration For Army Reduced

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8—(P)—A drastic cut in gasoline ration has caused the army to revise its system of picking up soldiers absent without leave, Fort Hayes disclosed today.

The provost marshal's office said the army has been ordered to cut its gasoline consumption 90 percent and for that reason it no longer can send military policemen by truck to pick up AWOL soldiers.

Local law enforcement officers stand to benefit by the gas curtailment. If they bring AWOL soldiers to one of six "receiving stations"

Big Turnout for Christmas Gift Demonstration at Farm Bureau

MRS. NORMA CAMPBELL, Fayette County Home Demonstration agent, shows a big crowd of ladies at the Christmas at Home meeting some of the work in textile painting. (Record-Herald Photo)

Some 200 women from around the county got together Wednesday afternoon in the Farm Bureau auditorium to compare ideas on how to make Christmas a little brighter in the home.

Occasion for the big turnout was the second annual "Christmas at Home" meeting, sponsored by the Home Demonstration Council of Fayette County.

Many of the women have already got a start on their Christmas gifts. They brought several hand-made gifts with them Wednesday—such things as aluminum trays, textile paintings and splatter prints.

Then there was a discussion period. Mrs. Glenn Smith explained garden club exhibits; Miss Mary Prudence Nilen talked about aluminum trays and Mrs. Norma Campbell spoke on textile painting and splatter printing.

Exhibits of the work were on demonstration on tables spotted on the second floor of the Farm Bureau building. The exhibits will remain there about a week.

Home Economist Speaks

Mrs. John Sheeley served as chairman for the program. Mrs. Virgil Garringer led the group in some singing. She was accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence Black.

Patty Maddux, home economist for the Dayton Power and Light Company, talked about foods for Christmas and demonstrated several.

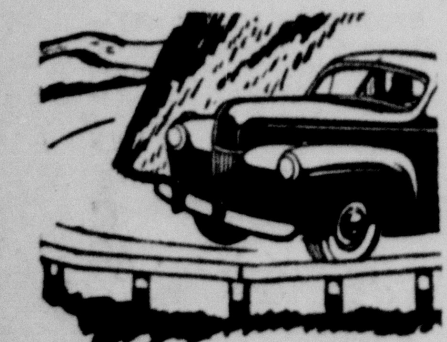

One of the features of the program was a discussion on the subject "Holiday in Other Lands." Mary Vrettos spoke on Greece while Albert G. Cobb had several women model outfits which might be found in Japan.

Those who modeled the Japanese costumes included Mrs. Donald Denen, Mrs. Herschel Frazier

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 —(P)—Eight years ago today I went fishing with an elegant gentleman named Cleveland Sessums. He had a black mustache, a gentle manner, and a wonderful knowledge of music and Elizabethan literature. We were both working in Louisiana then. Twice a week we went fishing together, spring, summer, fall and winter. We knew the bayous around New Orleans, the way some people know their way around their living rooms.

It was beautiful back in the bayou country in the winter. The grass was down to a nub and we could see the muskrat mounds that had been hidden by the tall grass in the summer. And once in a while, miles up a bayou with no house in sight, we came across the broken and abandoned hut of a trapper.

It was cold that day eight years ago, down to around 35 degrees, as I remember. Around 4:30 in the afternoon we went back to the fishing camp and tied the boat to the dock.

The little man--we never knew his name and all we knew about him was that he worked for Sam the fat man who owned the camp and rented the boats--came down to meet us. We had no fish.

The little man pointed to the clear water around the boats. "Perch," he said. "You didn't get any bass. You might get some perch." He had a pole with him. He and Cleveland and I fished till dark in the cold water. Then we walked up the road to the camp to get coffee.

A radio was going on the shelf beside the counter. Two other fisherman, strangers, were facing the radio, standing still. Sam was behind the counter, watching the radio. "A couple of coffees," we said.

Sam put up his hand, palm out to keep quiet. He pointed with his thumb to the radio. The announcer was saying something about the battleship Arizona being sunk. He said some more things. He said something about the Japanese attacking Pearl Harbor. "Coffee," I told Sam. "What's that business about the Japanese?"

Cleveland and I weren't listening to the radio any more. We were taking off our sweaters. "What's that stuff?" I said.

Without looking at us, Sam said "That's facts he's telling us. The Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor." One of the strangers turned around and looked at us. "That's the truth, Jack," he said.

Suddenly we saw the tenseness in Sam and the strangers. And suddenly Cleveland and I knew it was true. The man on the radio was pouring out more disaster. We looked for the little man. He was behind the counter with Sam now. The radio announcer said the attack had happened hours ago. "Did you know about this when you came down to the dock?" Cleveland asked the little man. "Yes," he said. "Why didn't you tell us?" Cleveland said. "I guess I just forgot about it," the little man said. "I guess it was just thinking of perch."

Cleveland and I went out and got into the car and drove back to the city. How could anyone, then or eight years later, forget Pearl Harbor and Dec. 7?

But last night when I sat down to write today's piece, under today's dateline, I started out "Washington, DEC. 7..." and suddenly I remembered what day it was. I stopped there and went around asking a half dozen men: "You know what date tomorrow is?" each in turn said "December 7." I said "you know what anniversary it is?" One by one they said no. "Pearl Harbor," I said. And one by one they said "it is at that" or "sure enough." They were surprised they had forgotten, just as I was.

DANGER IN DELAY

HEMORRHOIDS are vascular tumors which tend to become progressively worse. Even though the symptoms abate for variable lengths of time, they do not heal themselves. Even a so-called "mild" case may disguise the development of more serious rectal diseases. WHY BE IN DOUBT?

Lions Hold Scrimmage To Prepare for Trip

Preparing for two games this week end, the WHS varsity cagers held a fast scrimmage Wednesday night.

Coach Lewis had his boys work the ball in against a zone defense, in anticipation of this strategy by the Lima South team.

The Lima South court is small like the Lion's floor, consequently very adaptable to the zone defense, Lewis said.

From their display in the scrimmage Wednesday night, the Lions showed signs of being a sharper team than took the floor against Xenia Central last Friday.

Each week, Lewis said, the boys will have a little more polish and a few more tricks of the game up their sleeve.

For their second and third games this season, the Lions will have to be at the top of their form in order to even hold their own.

Competition Keen In Ladies League

Wide open scrambles marked bowling in the Ladies League, Wednesday night at Bowland. Not one winner was able to make a clean sweep.

Kirk's Tractorettes turned in the high score of the evening when they tallied 2259 (last two handicaps) to win the last two games from the Mac Toolers, after dropping the opener by 18 pins. Not a single individual score was under the 400 mark.

The Helfrich Markettes lost their first game to the Wade Shoes, but came back to win the last two in the bang-up match.

After winning the first two games, the King-Kashers lost the last one to the Paulin Motor girls from Mt. Sterling, by six pins. That matched the first game for excitement—the King-Kashers won it by only four pins.

Ruth's Beauticians won the first and last games of their match from the NCR girls.

Hart and Walker Eying Pro Game

Notre Dame End Mentions $25,000

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK, Dec. 8 — (AP) — Two of the year's outstanding college football stars, Leon Hart of Notre Dame and Doak Walker of Southern Methodist, may wind up as professional teammates next year at Detroit — but the Lions will have to say it with dollars.

Hart, the most widely acclaimed lineman to come out of college ranks since Larry Kelley of Yale 13 years ago, indicated yesterday he might be hard to persuade unless the bid is a fat one.

"I'm waiting for the right offer," the 21-year-old all-America end from Turtle Creek, Pa., said. "I won't play unless I get what I want."

The six-foot-four, 260-pound flankman, who is fast enough to play fullback, was asked what sort of a figure would interest him.

"You might say $25,000 a year as a starter," he replied. Then he winked, leaving you to decide whether he was serious.

Bo McMillin, coach of the National Football League Lions, was in town, too, last night to speak at the Heisman memorial award dinner honoring Hart as the outstanding football player of the year.

McMillin has been talking with Walker, last year's Heisman winner, as well as Hart, but acknowledges he has made little progress with either athlete.

"I hope to have them both in our backfield next year," the silver-haired coach drawled. "I'd play Hart at halfback and Walker would make a fine addition to our team."

Hart, whose draft rights in the All-America Conference are held by Baltimore, hinted he was leaning toward the Lions because auto manufacturers in the motor city had offered him off-season jobs utilizing his engineering talents.

Kelley of Yale, also an end, is the last lineman to out-glimmer the backs so noticeably. He did it in 1936.

SYNOPSIS
Aristocratic old Judge Kingsridge and his social wife, Elizabeth, are welcoming home from abroad their son-in-law Major Frank Kingsridge, their daughter, Mrs. Kingsridge, and their grandchild, Mrs. Kingsridge. Only the "best" people are present. Elizabeth has seen to that! Observing her smart, society grandchild, Susan Kingsridge, Mrs. Kingsridge wonders what this strange child wants of life. Why does she not respond to the advances of the handsome young eligible Timothy Grant who has tried so hard to win her? An unexpected and most unwelcome guest arrives with the Kingsridges: a young man, the son of a famous Air Force Captain named Gerry. An old family skeleton rattles as he enters the room.

CHAPTER FOUR
THEY DANCED into the living room and around it once. Susan had the odd feeling that this had happened before. Or, rather, that all her life she had been waiting for it to happen, secure in her knowledge of its inevitability.

"Strangers—heart to heart," he was saying. "Odd, isn't it?"

"Only we're not quite strangers."

"No."

"Who are you?"

"You said it didn't matter."

"It doesn't. But I'd like to know your name. What am I to call you?"

"Call me Gerry."

"Gerry," she repeated, and he felt her struggling with a memory. "A distant cousin. And, I might add, completely persona non grata."

"Because of what?"

"Oh, a number of things!"

"We were passing the big window where your grandfather still stood, and as they went by she saw him come to a stiff and startled attention as if he were looking at a ghost. At the other end of the room she saw her grandmother barging down upon her parents and, drawing them aside, address them with agitated vehemence. Then she saw her mother glance up and across at her and Gerry, distress plain on her face before she seized her husband's arm and spoke to him in swift urgent appeal. Their clear concern was more than a mystery. It was a challenge. It put her on Gerry's side simply because they were arrayed against him."

He felt her draw closer to him as she said, "You're making quite a sensation, do you know it?"

He cocked an inquiring brow. "So?"

"So nothing! I don't mind if you don't."

He laughed and his arm tightened about her. "I have a feeling we're going to get along together—you and I."

Out of the corner of her eye she observed her father coming toward her now. He was a big man but he moved with a swift coordination and control that gave a dignity and an unexpected grace to his heavy figure. Beneath her breath she murmured, "Oh, oh!"

"He's being sent to rescue Beauty from the Beast."

"That's too silly!"

"How do you know?"

"Because I know! And I wouldn't care, anyway. I mean I'd make up my own mind."

"This is interesting. Don't I remember a conservatory somewhere?"

She nodded. They changed their direction and made for the hall, losing Susan's father as they went around the corner. She said, "Quick! And, breaking from him, slipped through the half-empty dining room into a small dim passage, then down this to a paneled door at its end. The next moment they had stepped into the fragrant quiet of the greenhouse. There was no light here, but a subdued radiance came through the glass walls from the moonlit snow outside."

"We'd better go to the far end," he said, and fitted before him.

"Will you be cold?" he asked, when they had reached it.

She shook her head, pulled out a stool from under a desk-shelf and perched on it, her heels caught on the highest rung, her hands clasped about her knees.

"Now tell me!" she commanded, sparkling with curiosity and interest. "I ought to know about you but I don't. You're more a dream."

He leaned against the shelf and, taking out his cigarettes, offered her one which she refused. Lighting one himself, he blew a cloud of smoke into the air before he replied. He had come here without a plan, with a desire only to surprise, to shock, and to gain if he could. He still had no plan. But one was beginning to take vague shape in his mind as he looked at this girl beside him.

"You're the dream," he said.

"You're beautiful, Susan."

She shook her head impatiently. "None of that stuff. Please. Just talk about you."

He felt his way with care. "Of course you don't remember. You couldn't have been much more than five or six."

She put her head back, her gaze narrowing reminiscently. "I do remember a little. It's coming to me. You were in the kitchen. Eating. You were terribly shabby. I can remember your wrists—so bony and so far out of your sleeves. You kept one hand on our dog and you looked at my grandmother without ever speaking. I was sorry for you, and you frightened me."

"Do I frighten you now?"

She thought this over. He gave her a strange feeling but she did not believe it was fear. "I don't think so," she said finally.

He said, "Good," and laughed. Her eyes in the moonlight were heather-blue, her face was a pale heart framed by dusky loveliness, her soft scarlet mouth a temptation. He looked away from her mouth and touched her hair lightly, feeling her grow quiet beneath his touch.

"Because..."

Senator Taft Wants T-H Law In Plank

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) called today for a "perfected and improved" Taft-Hartley labor law as one of the planks in a Republican platform for the 1950 elections.

He offered the idea in a report to Ohio voters, released here. Taft also said his party is "opposed to excessive taxation and to government interference with business through price-fixing, wage-fixing, rationing or government competition."

"The Republican party insists on a sound basis of fiscal security by a balanced budget and a level of taxation which does not deter business expansion as it has done in Great Britain," he said, adding: "It is completely opposed to socialism as destructive of liberty progress."

Citizens Chip In To Pay Chief's Pension

MENTOR, Dec. 8—(AP)—Mentor's police chief, Wayne Lingafelter, had a check for $1,968.65 today to cheer him during his serious illness. It represented money collected from police departments, the sheriff's department and private citizens of Lake County. The fund was started to bring his pension premiums up to date but has long since passed the necessary amount.

'Happy New Year' In Russian Style

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—Mr. Vishinsky wishes us all a Happy New Year, but he doesn't think things look too happy.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky was smiling—and he even waved his hat—as he left for home in Mother Russia.

He wished everybody in the United States a "Happy New Year." But he said the United Nations General Assembly meeting here was "not satisfactory."

The Soviet foreign minister, completing more than two months here as chief of the Soviet delegation to the U. N. assembly, said the Soviet Union will fight for peace and international security "as it has always done."

Scalds Son to Death

DEFIANCE, Dec. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Richard Gerken of nearby Ayersville yesterday said that she accidentally scalded her three-year-old son, Ronald, fatally. She said she slipped and fell while carrying hot water, spashing it on the boy.

—Your Feed Lot Gates—

Are they swinging and latching well for your winter stock corral?

The feed lot is the gold mine of agriculture. Gates that swing and latch properly make the task of caring for stock more pleasant. The gates we manufacture here in Washington C. H. are made right and carry complete hardware installed for center hinging-hanging and latching. Ask to see two styles: called "The Ranchman" and "Streamliner."

The old time gates that we sold years ago had no hinges. You had to buy hinges, bolts, latch, etc. extra, the same as you formerly bought your auto, bumpers, lights, etc., as extras. This is the day of modern and complete manufacture. See Wilson's for the best in farm fence and gates.

Women Stage Show for PTA

Eber Men Rewarded For Contest Win

Wednesday night, the women took over the monthly meeting of the Eber PTA.

The menfolk just sat back and enjoyed the show, as the women sang, presented a skit, paraded in blackface and otherwise entertained.

It was all part of an agreement developing out of a contest between the men and the women in the PTA's membership drive last month.

The men brought in more members than the women, so the latter were "paying the consequences" Wednesday night.

Feature of the show they put on was a minstrel.

Going to considerable lengths at being authentic, the women came out in blackface and all. Some of their costumes had the men rolling in the aisles with laughter.

The women in this skit were Mrs. Fred Carman, Mrs. Richard Craig, Mrs. Lloyd Alexander, Mrs. Maxine Caffell, Mrs. A. H. Indriedien, Mrs. Emil Howard, Mrs. Leona Slager, Mrs. Lewis Parrett and Mrs. Eddie Kruger.

Mrs. Ralph Pope and Mrs. Walter Carman contributed their bit to the fun with a skit entitled, "Over the Back Fence."

Other acts by Mrs. Pope, Mrs. Carman and Mrs. Torbett were appreciated by the men.

After the show, the women and the men joined forces again for a social hour.

County PTA Heads Here for Council

Problems facing PTA organizations got an informal airing at a meeting of the county PTA council here Wednesday afternoon.

Meeting in the county superintendent's office, representatives from eight of the 14 county PTAs swapped ideas on various topics. Program planning for PTAs was one of these.

The representatives compared notes on "school night" held at their respective schools, trying to pick out those elements that were most educational.

Scholarships to colleges were discussed. Some of the PTA heads wondered why awarded scholarships that are not used by the recipient could not be passed on to the next candidate in line.

Like other topics brought up at the council, this one will be taken back by the representatives to their PTA for individual study and action.

Mrs. George Burke, president of the Wilson PTA, presided at this month's meeting of the council.

County Engineer At Road Confab

Counties Confer With State Group

Fayette County was one of nine in southwestern Ohio represented at a meeting with J. W. Wilson, staff engineer of the Ohio highway study committee in Wilmington Wednesday morning.

Charles Ferguson of Fayette County was one of the nine county engineers who spoke for their counties at the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting was to explain to the county engineers the data that the committee is requesting for a statewide appraisal of roads in Ohio.

This appraisal will be used by the state legislature and administrators as a basis for (1) distributing funds for highways, roads, and streets (2) determining and assigning responsibility for each of the systems of roadways (3) adjusting management organizations and policies to obtain the most efficiency (4) preparing an overall plan for the development of roads to provide the most safe and efficient motor vehicle transportation.

This highway study in Ohio is being financed as a federal aid planning project out of both federal and state funds.

The federal government is sponsoring similar studies in seven other states around Ohio.

At the meeting in Wilmington, the county engineers were notified that the information requested by the study committee would be due December 15.

This information consists of prepared maps showing the present status and classification of roads and the actual traffic they handle at present.

County Hereford Association Holds Get-Acquainted Dinner

Three score members of the Fayette County Hereford Breeders Association, their wives and a few invited guests sat down at the dinner tables at Country Club Wednesday evening for an informal get-together.

There was virtually no business brought up and the after-dinner program was made up of light talks and spontaneous good humor.

Roy Griffith, the association president who presided at the meeting in the role of toastmaster, summed up the purpose of the gathering as "a way for the members (of the association) and their families to get better acquainted."

Cares and worries of farming were cast aside. As just for instance: About half of the members passed the word around hurriedly just before dinner for a practical joke on the headman. When Griffith was presented by Sam Marting, the secretary-treasurer, and the meeting turned over to him, those in on the joke got up and stalked out of the room, leaving the toastmaster standing mute in embarrassed bewilderment.

Laugh Ends Tenseness

The tenseness lasted only a moment, however; for they all came trooping back to their places laughing heartily. Griffith joined in the hilarity with obvious relief. The president summarized briefly the progress the association had made in the seven years since its organization and outlined some of its major activities.

From there on, others did the talking.

Marting told about the new equipment that is now available to make for a better farm life and gave the reminder that the State Hereford Association's annual sale would be held in Columbus March 27. Marting is the sale manager.

W. W. Montgomery, Fayette County's agricultural extension agent, praised the association for its cooperation and help in building up the 4-H beef club program in the county to one of the best in the state. He said more than 100 calves were now in the early stages of preparation for the show at the Fair here next summer.

Program Expanding

Albert Cobb, the assistant county agent, echoed Montgomery's commendations and went into a little more detail on the 4-H program. He also pointed out that the club program this year is about 20 percent larger than that of last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Zimmerman and Mr. and Mrs. Will Braun were introduced as the association's newlyweds. Braun is the vice president.

Ray Brandenburg, a past president, complimented Griffith on "a job well done" as president of the association and presented him with a necktie, elaborately embroidered with the likeness of a Hereford bull as a token of the association's appreciation.

Grange Honors Absent Members

Good Hope Group Holds Ceremonies

Memorial ceremonies were held at the regular meeting of the Good Hope Grange Wednesday night.

The charter was draped in black to honor the deceased State Grange Lecturer Ross K. Lawrence and Mrs. Clara Perry, member of the Good Hope Grange.

After these ceremonies, Master Loren Johnson conferred the obligation and secret work of the fourth degree on Mrs. Fred Prosch and Donald Surface.

During the business session of the meeting, the Grange members voted to purchase a $5 health bond for the Christmas Seal Sale.

It was announced at the meeting that the joint installation of officers for all the county granges would take place in Memorial Hall, Washington C. H., on January 13.

In commemoration of the 16th anniversary of the Good Hope Grange, Mrs. Loren Johnson read a history of the organization.

After the members had joined in the singing of "Silent Night," they were entertained by a piano brothered with the likeness of a Hereford bull as a token of the association's appreciation.

Acknowledging Mrs. Marting's birthday, the group sang "Happy Birthday to You."

The evening was brought to a close with a showing of motion pictures Brandenburg had taken on a trip to Hawaii and at the Fair here.
